There are a lot of global problems in our the nowadays world. One of them is global warming. Somebody thinks that it is just a myth, but I don't think so. Stephen Colbert said, "Global warming is not real because I was cold today! Also great news? World hunger is over because I just ate." It is means that global warming is real, however felt we it or not. I agree with this statement. Global warming is a serious problem, which can be dangerous for our planet and humans. Climate changes every year, and this process are beginning weekly. One of the reasons of warming is humans activities. For example, global warming leads to changing Gulfstream's temperature and speed. That's why climate at our territories changes too. Animals suffer because it can't adapt for new climate and weather. Environment in our planet can be destroyed. In conclusion, I would to say that Colbert's statement is really fair. Global warming is real and our planet is dangerous. Humans should stop it and save life on the Earth.
